Hear the difference

Hearing is often taken for granted and by the time we are in our 20's we have already started to lose the ability to pick up very high pitched sounds that were apparent in early childhood.

As hearing loss is often a gradual process, the changes can go undetected for many years and it can take until our 50's and more usually 60's to realise that we are missing some aspects of everyday life.

How would you answer the following questions?

	Yes	No
